Here We Go Again: Decertification, ALPRs, and Records Release

By: Shaun Rundle, CPOA Deputy Director.
Public safety bills have begun hearings in Senate and Assembly policy committees, such as Public Safety, Judiciary and Transportation. Authors are presenting many of the failed arguments they used last year, while law enforcement pushes back with new data and impacts based upon the last twelve months of insurrection and civil unrest. Bills releasing ALL use of force incident records and media access to command posts have already been heard, and peace officer eligibility, ALPR use, and proposals mandating you provide services to your homeless populations are on the horizon. Read more here.

Need a Quick Legislative Deep Dive for Your Agency? It's Free!

2021 legislation moves quickly through the Spring at the Capitol, so take this front-row seat to learn which proposed bills have the biggest impact to policing and where they are in the legislative process. In this 30-45-minute session of our LEADS online series in May a list of bills, their analysis and CPOA's position on them will be presented. Read more here.

Need a DEEPER Dive into Impactful Legislation? It's Free for Department Members!
